Old Economy Village, a must-see, tells the story of the Harmony Society, one of the oldest and most successful religious communal groups of the nineteenth century. The site contains the restored historic structures and gardens built between 1824 and 1830. The buildings, grounds, library, archives, and original artifacts are a memorial to the Society's commitment to the religious discipline and economic industry that built their American Utopia. The 1802 Log House on the grounds of the award-winning Beaver Area Heritage Museum is a center for education and demonstrates the lifestyle and everyday living conditions faced by typical frontier families circa 1802. Take a self-guided walking tour through history at Grove Cemetery. This time-honored cemetery is hallowed grounds to many historic tombstones, and houses memorials to New Brighton firemen and veterans of the Civil War, Spanish American War, and World War I. Bringing the past into the present, the Air Heritage Museum of Western Pennsylvania allows aircrafts to guide you through the rich history of flight. The museum holds aviation-related artifacts from past to present, Japanese and German artifacts from WWII, as well as civilian, commercial, and military antiquities.

From Beaver County to Broadway,
Joe Namath has always maintained his hometown roots.

Walk around Joe's old stomping grounds and learn more about the SuperBowl victor at the Larry Bruno Foundation Hall of Achievement & Museum. No trip to Beaver County would be complete without a visit to Saint Nicholas Chapel.

Beaver County played a major role in the Underground Railroad.

Slaves would travel through Hookstown and then up the Ohio River to the Beaver River where they would then be led to safe houses in Bridgewater. Abolitionists would help move the slaves to various stations in the county to secure their path to freedom. You can take a self-guided tour at known stops along the Underground Railroad in Darlington and New Brighton.

Birdwatchers will delight in the chance to see an active Bald Eagle's nest visible from public property.

Not only is Big Rock Park a great spot to fish along the Beaver River, but avid birdwatchers can also view an active Bald Eagle's nest. In addition to the eagles, osprey and other species of birds are plentiful, making this a destination for ardent nature-watchers.

With more than 200 dining establishments, Beaver County boasts many options for group dining with ample parking areas.

It's been said that one could travel the world without ever leaving Beaver County. The Industrial Revolution and the rise of steel brought immigrants from all over the world creating an extraordinary amalgamation of cultures. This led to the preservation of foods unique to one's homeland, traditions, and lifestyle.
